

I can use regular and irregular adjectives to compare.

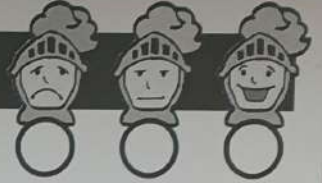

Complete each sentence by choosing the correct adjective from the brackets.

- Lady Angelica thinks that Sir Ansell is than the Black Knight.
(stronger / strongest)
- But in many ways he is probably than Pip.
(weaker / weakest)
- Sir Ansell thinks that Lady Angelica is the girl he has ever seen.
(more beautiful / most beautiful)
- He knows for certain that he is the man in the country.
(more handsome / most handsome)
- He may be and he may be than Pip, but Pip is definitely than Sir Ansell.
(bigger / biggest) (taller / tallest) (braver / bravest)
- Sir Ansell might be the knight in the kingdom, but Pip is the squire a knight could have, which is why he decided to squire for the , , but knight in the country – the Black Knight!
(luckier / luckiest) (better / best) (runder / rudest) (uglier / ugliest) (more loyal / most loyal)

Extension

Use these adjectives to compare in sentences of your own.

I can use regular and irregular adjectives to compare.

Write the correct form of the adjective in brackets to complete the sentences.

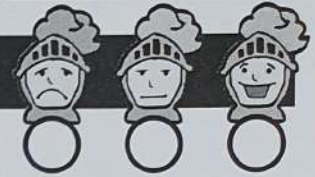

- Lady Angelica thinks that Sir Ansell is than the Black Knight.
(strong)
- But in many ways he is probably than Pip.
(weak)
- He may be and he may be than Pip,
but Pip is definitely than Sir Ansell.
(big) (tall) (brave)
- Sir Ansell thinks that Lady Angelica is the girl he has ever seen.
(beautiful)
- He knows for certain that he is the man in the country.
(handsome)
- Sir Ansell might be the knight in the kingdom, but Pip is the squire a knight could have, which is why he decided to squire for the,, but knight in the country – the Black Knight!
(lucky) (good) (rude) (ugly) (loyal)

Extension

Use these adjectives to compare in sentences of your own.

I can use regular and irregular adjectives to compare.

Write the correct form of the adjective in brackets to complete the sentences.

- Lady Angelica thinks that Sir Ansell is than the Black Knight.
(strong)
- But in many ways he is probably than Pip.
(weak)
- Sir Ansell thinks that Lady Angelica is the girl he has ever seen.
(beautiful)
- He knows for certain that he is the man in the country.
(handsome)
- He may be and he may be than Pip, but Pip is definitely than Sir Ansell.
(big) (tall) (brave)
- Sir Ansell might be the knight in the kingdom, but Pip is the squire a knight could have, which is why he decided to squire for the , , but knight in the country – the Black Knight!
(lucky) (good) (rude) (ugly) (loyal)

Extension

Use these adjectives to compare in sentences of your own.

Sir Ansell Saves the Day! – Regular and irregular adjectives to compare (Standard English)

Answers to pages 117 – 120

Lady Angelica thinks that Sir Ansell is stronger than the Black Knight.

But in many ways he is probably weaker than Pip.

Sir Ansell thinks that Lady Angelica is the most beautiful girl he has ever seen.

He knows for certain that he is the most handsome man in the country.

He may be bigger and he may be taller than Pip, but Pip is definitely braver than Sir Ansell.

Sir Ansell might be the luckiest knight in the kingdom, but Pip is the best squire a knight could have, which is why he decided to squire for the rudest, ugliest, but most loyal knight in the country – the Black Knight!