

Instructions for Stone Age Tool Spear Paper Model

Follow these instructions to make your own life-sized Stone Age spear!

You will need:

- A pair of scissors
- Some glue
- (Optional) A ruler to help with folding

Instructions:

1. First, cut out all five of the templates. Cut carefully along the black lines.
2. Now, fold all of the dotted lines on the templates. Use the side of the ruler to help you fold the long sides. Look at the diagram to help you. Some of the folds go up instead of down.

3. Take the template with the tab numbered 1. Add glue to the long tab 1 and join it to the other side of the template to make a long triangular prism shape. This will become one end of your spear.
4. Now, take the roughly heart-shaped template. This will make the 'sharpened flint' section of the spear. Firstly, glue the backs of both sides of the 'flint' section together to make the 'flint' double-sided.
5. Next, attach the 'flint' to the end of the shape you made in Step 3. The 'flint' needs to slide into the slots on the end of the spear. Check how this works (see photo to help you) and then add glue to shapes 2 and 3 to attach the two flaps.
6. Then, continue making the spear handle. Take the template with the tab numbered 4. First, add glue to tab 4 and join it to the other side to make a triangular prism shape.

7. Then, attach the shape you made in Step 6 to the rest of the handle by gluing small tabs 5, 6 and 7 and sliding the two shapes together. Hold or rest the handle straight on the table until the glue dries.
8. Take the template with the long tab numbered 7 and glue it to the other side to make another triangular prism shape. Repeat what you did in Step 7 with this template: glue tabs 8, 9 and 10 to join the two parts of the handle together. Hold or rest the handle straight on the table until the glue dries.
9. Now, take the final template. Add glue to the shape numbered 10 and fold the other side of the template over to attach it on top.
10. Finally, attach the shape you made in Step 9 to the rest of the handle to complete your spear. Glue tabs 11, 12 and 13 to join the two parts. Hold or rest the handle straight on the table until the glue dries.

You have finished your life-sized Stone Age spear model!
